IF YOU WERE AT THE VIGIL for Orlando on Old Compton Street, you'll understand us when we say it was one of the most moving experiences of our lives.

Thousands of people descended on Soho on Monday night, in the biggest tribute so far to the atrocities against the LGBT community in Orlando.

Fittingly, crowds centred around The Admiral Duncan, the scene of a homophobic bombing in 1999.

Scores of gay men, lesbians, transgender people, genderqueer people, drag queens and straight people were out in force to show solidarity with the worst mass shooting in U.S. history.

People were hugging, crying and holding rainbow flags and banners saying "Love will always win against LGBT hate" and "London stands united with Orlando against terrorism."

Mayor of London Sadiq Khan was in attendance, as well as Jeremy Corbyn, activist Peter Tatchell and face of Channel 4 Jon Snow. There were also scores of familiar faces from the London gay scene, including the beautiful Son Of A Tutu who acted as the event's unofficial usher, conducting the crowds with modesty and grace.

At 7.05pm, a wave of silence spread through the streets for over two minutes as the dead were remembered. It culminated with a heartwarming gesture of love when balloons were released and the crowd let out a roar of hope and freedom, and the London Gay Men's Choir burst into song.

Well done London! We've done ourselves, and hopefully Orlando, proud.

Brighton

EDITOR'S LETTER

By Dylan Jones

What happened in Orlando over the weekend marks a grisly point in LGBT history. It is a physical, merciless attack on our way of life and the values and freedoms we treasure most. When America's biggest terror attack since 9/11 is targeted at such a close-knit, comparatively small group of people, it carries unignorable significance. The fact that it was during the Pride season hurts all the more, making us feel scared and powerless at a point when we should be feeling our strongest and proudest.

It is important to note that the UK mainstream press has been hugely incompetent on its coverage of the events. On Sunday night, writer Owen Jones quite rightly walked out of a Sky News interview when a fellow guest and one of the presenters interviewing him implied that the attack was not homophobic. He pointed out that if the attack had been on a synagogue, it would unquestionably have been treated as anti-Semitic. Sky News and the presenter involved have come under fire from gay rights groups and the general public.

The BBC have also been vastly criticised for their failure to cover the events, showing hours of footage of the Queen's birthday celebrations, rather than covering one of the biggest terrorist attacks of the century.

It emerged this morning too that The Daily Mail failed to report it at all, instead advertising a pair of pearl earrings and a picture pull-out of the Queen's birthday, with not a word about the attacks.

Obviously questions have been raised as to the motives and reasoning behind this lack of reporting. Many are saying that such apathetic responses show that, despite appearances to the contrary, a lot of people in high places still don't care what happens to our community. As well as remembering the events in Orlando, we need to remember this, and consider what it implies.

The horror that unfolded on Sunday morning at Pulse in Orlando shows that homophobia is still very real, and it's right on our doorstep. Acrid, senseless hatred still exists, and it can slither directly into the heart of our community and sink its poisonous fangs into our necks.

It would be easy to feel beaten, hopeless or defeated. To just keep our heads down and stay safe. It would also be easy to ignore it.

Wouldn't it be lovely if we could just turn up the volume on our Ab Fab boxsets, pour another gin and tonic, and pretend none of it had happened. But that's just not good enough. We can no longer sit in our living rooms and do nothing. Patsy certainly wouldn't stand for it, that's for sure. She'd be storming down Old Compton Street, shouting "PISS OFF!" and brandishing a bottle of Bollinger.

That said, we should also try not to react with anger. Anger will hurt no-one but ourselves. The way to respond is not with aggression, or hatred towards other minorities, but with love. The aim of attacks like this is to make us blind with rage, and to divide us in our views. We need to resist that and stick together, with each other and with our allies of all backgrounds, sexualities and religions.

We need to stay grounded, stay logical and above all, stay proud. Wear what we want, go where we want, hold hands with who we want. This summer, our Pride celebrations here in London and across the world should be more euphoric, glittering and defiant than ever. Extremists like the Orlando attacker Omar Mateen are lonely, lost people. Let's show them how great it is to be colourful, joyful and free.

Gary Henshaw
Owner, KU Bar

The atmosphere at the vigil on Monday was one of pure and organic unity. Soho, and all that joined, felt every emotion possible; from the heartbreak of the Orlando attack, to respect for the victims, and yet a wave of absolute pride and solidarity for standing as one, as an LGBT community and showing Pride. There were tears, cheers, and pure love.

In light of the attack at Orlando's Pulse club, it was critical to show a community that will not stand down to terror or hate, that we will continue to fight for equal rights, continue to stand for what we believe, continue to be proud of who we are, and who we love. This vigil showed the London LGBT community at its best; united as one against hate.

More than ever, recent events highlight the need for legal and social equality. The need for education and the need for events like Pride.

Jeremy Joseph
Owner, G-A-Y

From 6pm onwards on Monday night you could feel a sense of coming together. As Old Compton Street got busier & busier, the atmosphere became more and more emotional. Seeing thousands coming together became the true definition of community.

The vigil was important for several reasons. The attack on Pulse wasn't just an attack on Orlando, it was an attack on every LGBT venue in the world. We needed to show solidarity with the LGBT community in Orlando. It was important for people to have somewhere to come together.

I think what has happened humanises us. Some religious leaders have spoken against this attack, who before may not have been supporters of the LGBT community. We are seen now as a community, especially in the way we've all come together. This attack has strengthened our place in the world. Much of the news coverage has been so positive, and it shows how important events like Pride are. This year's London pride will hopefully be a day where we come together as a community. Let's not make it a day of just partying but also a day of solidarity.

Bisi Alimi
Activist

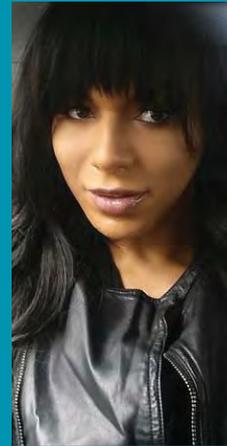

The vigil was really moving for me. I felt so overwhelmed and empowered. I saw the huge crowd and felt so proud to be part of such an amazing community. It is important to remember that the Soho nail bombing happened on Old Compton Street in 1999. So to be back there to stand in solidarity with LGBT people, not just in Orlando, but across the world, was just awesome. I think we sent a very strong message out yesterday that hate crime will not define us and we will not be scared by it. Any LGBT person who has been afraid, in the closet or in doubt, would have seen yesterday and felt really proud.

Munroe Bergdorf
Model & DJ

The atmosphere was incredible, thick with love and solidarity.

It's unfortunate that it sometimes takes situations like this for our community to really pull together and realise we're all in it together. The Orlando shooting shows us why Pride is important. We have rights and laws to protect us, but homophobia, transphobia and biphobia still exist in the world on a grand scale. We need pride to show the world that even in the face of such adversity and hate, we have love and each other. Our community is powerful, colourful and built on love.

Chris Godfrey
Assistant Editor of Attitude Magazine

There's been a lot of in-fighting within the UK's LGBT community over the last few years, a mark of complacency perhaps. People forget that actually there's still a very real threat to us – even in countries with relatively progressively attitudes. There are factions in society that will never accept us, there are people who quite literally want us dead. Monday night was a bittersweet reminder that we are much, much stronger when we stand together, that we're united in our differences.

Vanity Von Glow
Performer

The atmosphere began as one of solemn contemplation but once the silence had been observed and London Gay Men's Chorus began to sing, it became one of reassurance and ultimately of hope, pride and confidence that against any odds, love wins.

It is vitally important for our community to show solidarity when under attack. Not just as a show of strength but to send a message to those less well protected that we are aware, that we are listening, that we do care, and that we want to help. Love must be expressed.

The LGBT community is a nation without borders. Social media now allows us to be closer than ever to our community, not just locally but globally. Because of this we see up close how much still needs to be done. Across the world we must change not only laws to protect gay people, but also the hearts and minds of the people who despise us. What Monday night's vigil has proven is that we're as prepared as ever to undertake this important work.

Unmissable Pride Stuff

(Or, THE QX PRIDE GUIDE)

As the title suggests, here's our guide to UNMISSABLE PRIDE STUFF! It's what we'll be doing so, obviously, it's what you SHOULD be doing. Because if we're there, everyone will be there! Because we're super cool and famous! The paparazzi followed us last time we went to get a Sainsburys Meal Deal (not true).

We're being dicks, obviously. All of the stuff going on at Pride is amazing, but this is just the stuff that happened to catch our eye. Don't be mistaken in thinking Pride is over one weekend. This year, seemingly more than ever, it's an entire production, with a good couple of weeks' worth of stuff going on at a host of venues across the city. So yeah, here's our pick!

This Much

Daily until Saturday 2nd July

7:15pm

Soho Theatre, 21 Dean Street, W1D 3NE

Tickets from £10

Fresh from a critically-acclaimed run at Edinburgh Fringe, This Much (Or An Act Of Violence Towards the Institution of Marriage) questions the heteronormative concept of marriage, and re-examines how we define ourselves through relationships. The plot details have all been kept quite clandestine, because apparently knowing any more spoils it, but anything critically-acclaimed that involves boys in wedding dresses has to be good, right?!

Pride In Soho

Saturday 25th June

Midday – late

Free

Now, we don't know about you, but for us, THIS is what Pride's all about! Stumbling through sun-scorched Soho Square, a bottle of Smirnoff Ice in one hand and a rainbow flag in the other, avoiding ex boyfriends and scouting out new ones. Drag queens hang out of third-floor windows, hot boys in denim pants twerk to Britney, horrified straight Italian tourists get jostled into the McDonalds toilets and it's generally just a wonderful, free, outrageous hive of debauchery. If you do nothing else during pride, battle your way into Soho and drink in the vibes (and the Smirnoff Ice).

Natural History Museum Lates

Friday 24th June

6pm – 10pm

Free

This year for the first time ever, the Natural History Museum is opening its doors to pride! As venues go, the Natural History Museum is, unarguably, one of the best in the world. It's got a bloody buggery diplodocus skeleton for god's sake! Yes, for Pride they'll be hosting a special edition of their popular Museum Lates nights, where they open until ten and serve a selection of wines and beers for people to saunter with down their hallowed halls. There'll be some other stuff too, including special exhibits and performances from the London Gay Men's Chorus and appearances from drag queens Gina Gee, Courtney Dix and Vanity Von Glow. Where else could you sip a glass of prosecco next to a dinosaur skeleton whilst chatting to a drag queen?! Fabulous.

A Night At The Musicals

Monday 20th June

8pm – 11pm

Pizza Express, The Pheasantry, 152 Kings Road, SW3 4UT

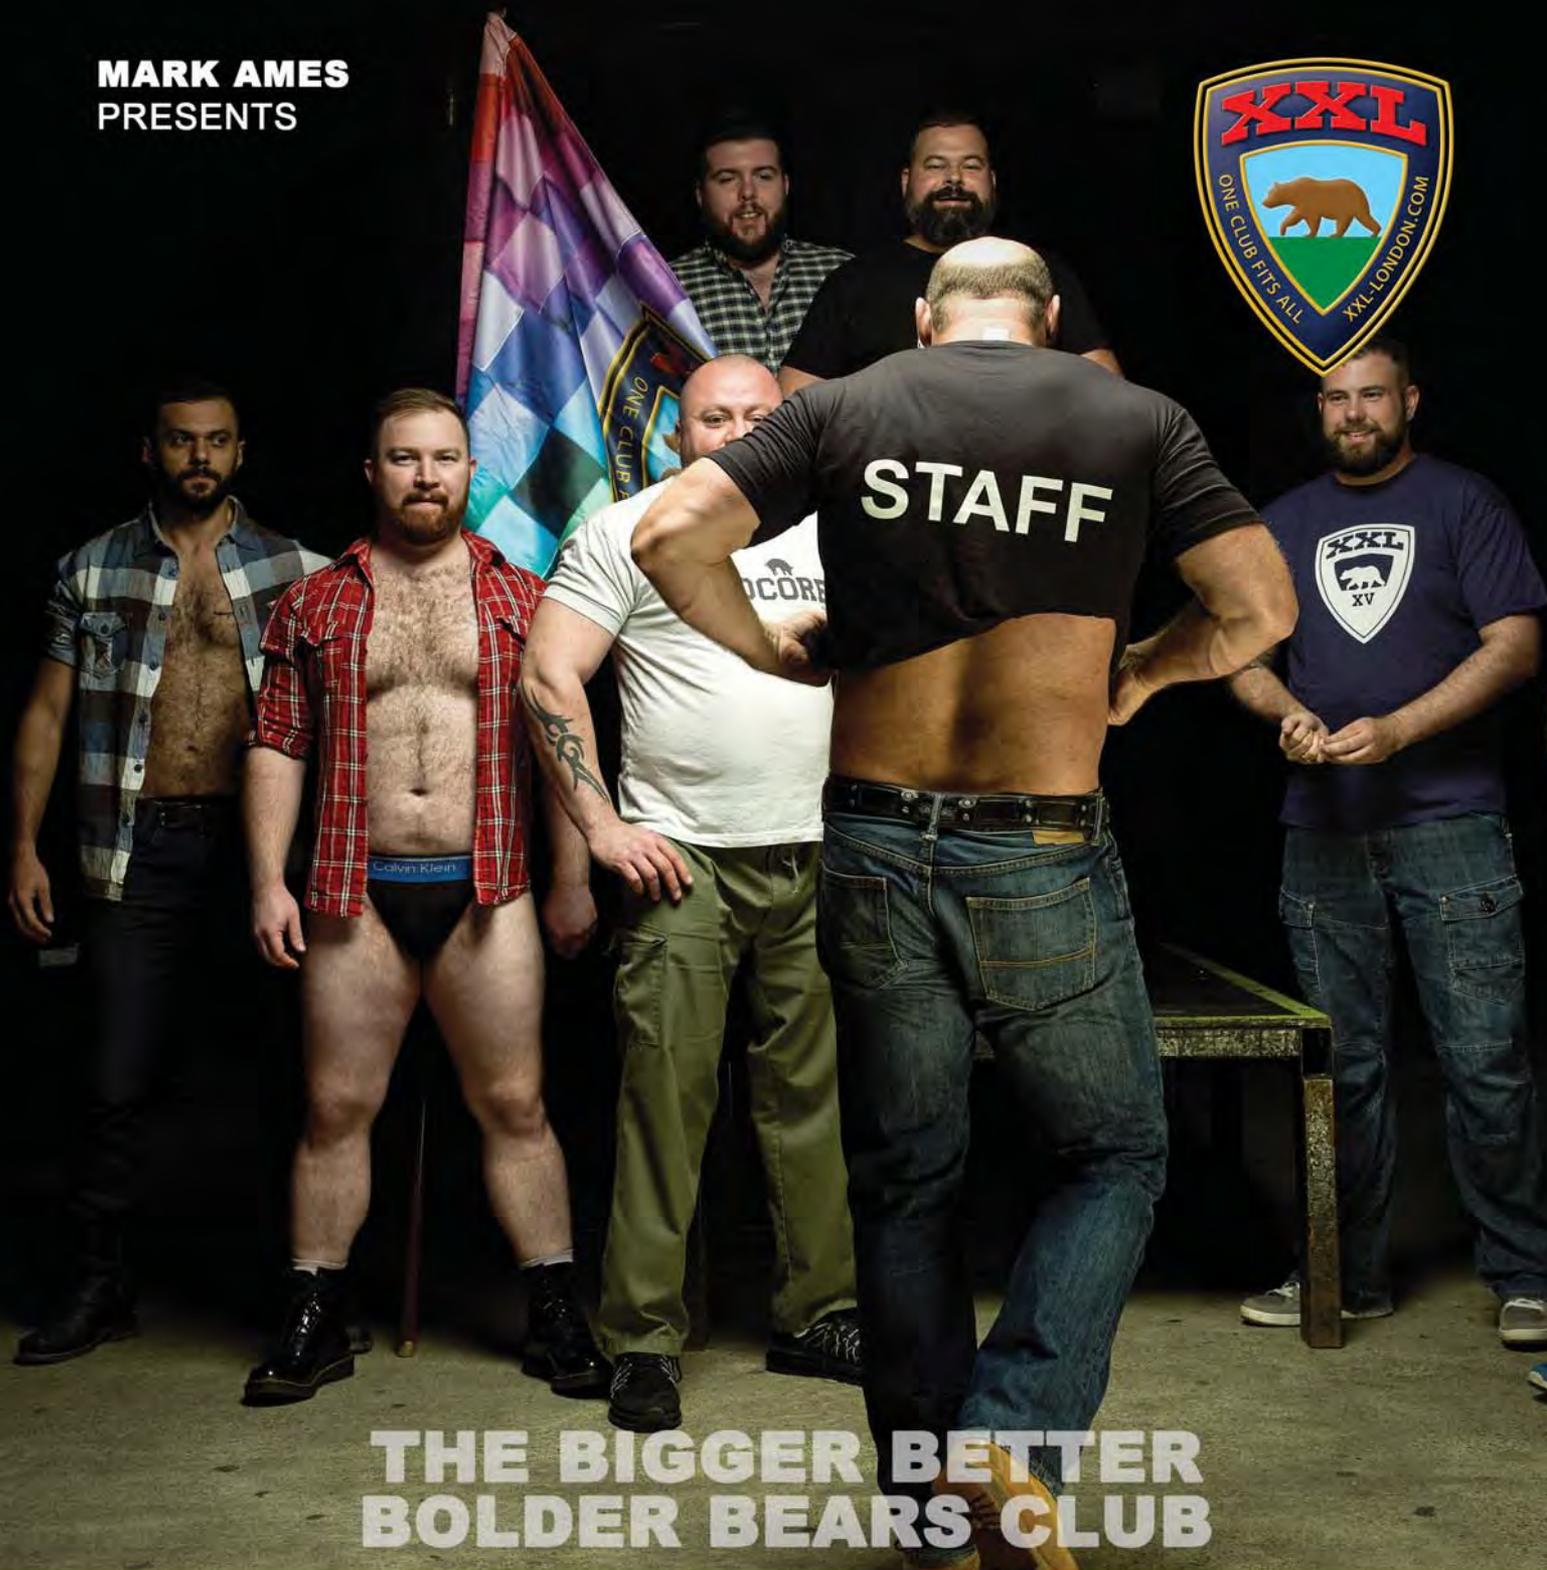

£18

Another brain-fingingly unique experience! Watching two drag queens sing hits from musicals at a Pizza Express in Chelsea! Again, what other city on earth would facilitate this?! This is why we love London. We've been to this night before actually, when they did it last Christmas and it is, as you might imagine, absurd and hilarious, but also has moments of breathtaking emotion and real, premier league talent. Jonny Woo and Le Gateau Chocolat are both award-winning performers at the top of their game and it certainly shows. Unmissable, and the perfect way to kick off a week of campations!

So that's it for now! Check back next week for Part 2 of our Pride Guide.

Funny Peculiar at The Glory

Diane Chorley

THE GLORY

The Glory,
281 Kingsland Road, E2 8AS.
From 8pm.
£6 adv, £8 on the door.

Ever pioneers of the sublime and ridiculous, The Glory are doing a new night of stand up comedy and performance, inviting revolutionary, inventive and hilarious performers to tread their hallowed, glitter-strewn boards. This time around it's hosted by Queen of the Estuary, Diane Chorley, who wouldn't look out of place thoughtfully popping an olive in her mouth in a production of Abigail's Party. Then there's headliner John Kearns, and newcomers Catherine Bohart and Haydn Haynes, with a turn from Jonny Woo of course. Pioneers in comedy! Pioneers in poofs! Pioneers in pouffes! It's The Glory!

The Royal Vauxhall's Tavern's beefiest, meatiest night is back this week! Yes, it's BEEFMINCE. A steaming hot slab of sexiness from the South London party boys. With DJs Silverhook and Cactushead spinning popular and eclectic tunes to a buff, jolly crowd of gorgeous guys. They've also got Gordon John for their closing set, who made a name for himself producing tracks for labels like PP Music, Nervous and Hedonistic. So rush down to the RVT! Have a voddy! Take your top off! Have fun! That's what Beefmince is all about!

Friday 17th June

Beefmince

BEEFMINCE

The Royal Vauxhall Tavern,
372 Kennington Lane, SE11

A:M

A:M

Protocol, South Lambeth
Place, SW8 1SP.
11pm – 11am. £8 adv
tickets, £13 OTD.

Untz, untz, untz! Fast becoming famous as one of the city's most notorious after-hours parties, A:M hits London again this week with yet another night of debauchery! They've got state-of-the-art soundsystems, some of the scene's best DJs and, most importantly, lots of hot men with their tops off! It's a winning formula for a gay club. Tried and tested! And we should know. But we're the ones who tried and tested it. So, if you've got brunch plans on Saturday, cancel them immediately. That smashed avocado on rye bread WILL HAVE TO WAIT! You've got club nights to go to!

Le Cock is now a regular installation at glittering-spewing dance basement East Bloc, and it's all the better for it! Pop to the Bloc for some Cock! Or you can just have a dance, if you're not in the mood for cock. It does get a bit much sometimes doesn't it, the endless cock. Sometimes you just think "oh god not this again." So yes, have a dance, have a drink, and listen to some of the city's best DJs, like Attack Attack or Ben Jamin, or Martyn Fitzgerald, spinning house, disco, pop, Italo mash up! Yes! If you haven't been to East Bloc yet, you'll love it. Friendly debauchery of the best kind.

Friday 17th June

Le Cock

LE
COCK

East Bloc, 217 City Road,
EC1V 1JN. 11pm – 6am.
£5 before 12.30am,
£10 after.

Saturday 18th June

XXL

Pulse, 1 Invicta Plaza,
South Bank, SE1 9UF,
10pm – 7am. £15 guests,
£8 members.

It's XXL! Love a bit of XXL. If you go down to XXL today, you're in for a big surprise. It's a bear's paradise of bootcut jeans, burly shoulders and BIG FAT BASS. It's become one of the most iconic gay nights in London, famous for its friendly but cruisey vibes, cavernous two room dancefloors, and breath-taking air cannons. They've got one of the scene's best-known DJs Wayne G in residence, as well as more hot bears than you can shake a stick at.

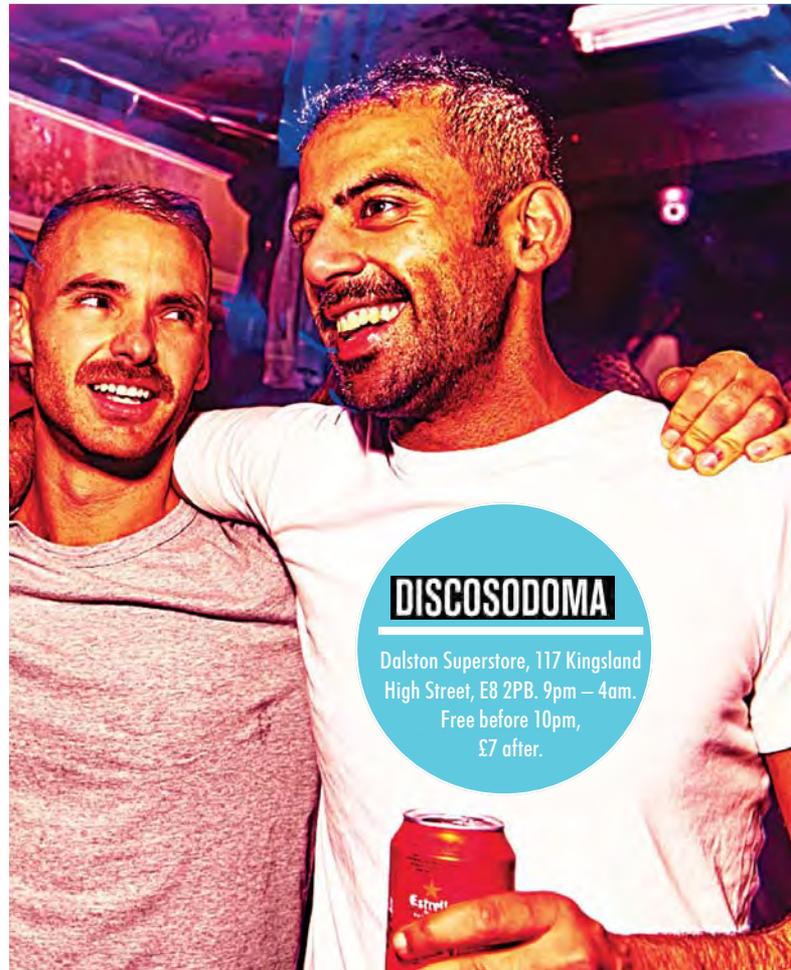

Saturday 18th June

Discosodoma

Outrageous queer party sensation Discosodoma is a celebration of our two favourite things – disco and sodomy! In fact, we wish we'd called ourselves Discosodoma. Discosodoma Magazine. It's got a ring to it. Maybe it hasn't actually. It's an extra special Discosodoma this month, because they've got sexy surly artist Man Power launching his EP, Planet Cock! Of course it's called Planet Cock. What else would it be called. As well as that, they've got floral bondage shenanigans from special guests like Nic Fisher, Panos Z and Diet Clinic.

DISCOSODOMA

Dalston Superstore, 117 Kingsland High Street, E8 2PB. 9pm – 4am.
Free before 10pm, £7 after.

Saturday 18th June

Papa Loko: In the Beginning was Sound

After an explosive debut, Papa Loko returns to it's new home in Apiary Studios for its one and only summer techno dance. Damin Hansford, DJ Candi Bianca and Loko founder Othon will be supplying the soul-coasting songs to lift you up. There will also be a specially-curated bar with a small but carefully chosen selection of organic and locally produced drinks as well mind and taste-expansive cocktails.

PAPA LOKO

Apiary Studios, 458 Hackney Road, E2 9, 11pm – 5am.

PAGANO'S GOT PRIDE IN XXL

Originally from Italy but now a proud Londoner, sexy bear Pagano is one of the most successful DJs and producers to come out of the London gay scene. He was even described by DJ Mag as "mind-blowing".

I know! He was! So guess what... XXL has GOT HIM for Pride!

So while you gird your loins and groom your fur, ready for his sure-to-be sensational set on Saturday June 25th, familiarize yourself with this Pagano fact-file! We love a fact file, makes us feel so educated. If you don't care for facts though, just have a gander at his photos. CRUMPET.

1. As a producer, Pagano produced tracks for labels worldwide such as MARK KNIGHT's label TOOLROOM Records (UK), Cr2 (UK), UMEK's label 1605, Stefano Noferini's DEEPERFECT (Italy), My Digital Enemy's ZULU (UK), DJ Chus' label STEREO PRODUCTIONS (Spain), HOTFINGERS (Italy), TWISTED AMERICA (USA), NERVOUS (USA), The Cube Guys' CUBE Recordings (Italy) TOMMY BOY (USA), KULT (USA), S2G (Germany), PACHA Recordings, MINISTRY OF SOUND & more

2. Pagano productions have been supported by a variety of DJs such as: Carl Cox, Umek, Danny Tenaglia, Nicole Moudaber, Mark Knight, Chus & Ceballos, Roger Sanchez, Cristian Varela, Stefano Noferini, Route94, Skream, Format:B, Tiesto, Chuckie, Wally Lopez, Paul Van Dyk, Fergie, Cevin Fisher, Bob Sinclair, Quentin Harris, Danny Rampling, Abel, Ralph Rosario, Dj Vibe, Dubfire, Sister Bliss, Prok & Fitch, Alex Kenji, Hoxton Whores

3. Pagano's original productions and remixes have reached the Top Ten of the official dance charts in:

UK

USA

Germany

Italy

Including the Billboard, DMC and Buzz charts and have been played in the dance music programmes of radio stations like BBC Radio 1.

4. Most of Pagano's single and compilation releases have stormed the sales charts in all the major digital music stores worldwide including a #4 in the iTunes Dance Album Chart in Europe and two #1 in the Beatport House and Beatport Techno releases TOP 100 sales charts. CHART TOPPER!

5. Pagano has his own independent record label: KISM Recordings. The KISM Recordings style is a mixture of House, Tech House and Techno. KISM featured artists

Filterheadz

Jason Chance

Twofalls

Kostas Maskalides

Angel Heredia

Obi Baby

...and obviously Pagano himself!

6. Finally, Pagano's years of DJ gigs at the most important straight venues and gay events in the world, have helped bridge the gap between the scenes!

Don't miss Pagano's set, between 2am-6am, on Saturday 25th June for XXL London Pride at Pulse (1 Invicta Plaza, South Bank, SE1 9UF), 9pm-9am. £9 members, £16 guests.

As always, London's biggest, beariest nightclub did not disappoint on Saturday! It wins points just for sheer spectacle. Its vaulting ceilings and majorly huge dancefloor make for an amazing setting for a big camp night out. And as if that wasn't enough, their massive smoke cannons will blow your shirt off and take your breath away. Another great thing about XXL is the crowd. No judgy little twinks or posey muscle marys here! It's all about having a dance, having a chat and having a good time. If you're a bear, you'll LOVE XXL because it's full of 'em! Loads of lovely hairy broad-shouldered men. And if you're not a bear, you'll be in the minority but that's fine because everyone's really welcoming and friendly. All in all, a super-fun, super-gay, super-sized Saturday night out! Thanks guys x

Continuing to dominate the afterhours club scene, Beyond was once again rocking Fire last Sunday morning. In the main room the legendary Fat Tony was joined on the decks by Tony English and Nik Denton while doing the business in the back room were HiFi Sean and MisWhite. The crowd were an eclectic mix from across the capital, some from other clubs the night before but many who had been to bed and got up just for Beyond such is the pull of it's cutting edge music. As the sun came up and we were leaving the club the news from the shooting at Pulse in Orlando came through and we realised that even in the safest of spaces tragedy can strike. But rather than divide us and scare us in to hiding, on the contrary, a direct attack such as this only strengthens our resolve to stand shoulder to shoulder with LGBT communities across the globe. We will continue to dance and continue to be visible until we have equality for all.

Sink the Pink: Freakshow
11/06/16
Troxy, 490 Commercial
Road, E1 0HX

Words by Nicolas Chinardet
Photos by zefrographica

What a difference a few hours make. On Saturday night hundreds of the queerest freaks in London gathered at the venerable Troxy in Limehouse for a new decadent edition of Sink the Pink. Bearded drag queens, musclemen and all kinds of weird and wonderful gender-bending creatures came together in exulting celebration, filling the place with a vibrant, joyful energy, helped by a large group of dragged-up performers. The costume competition, judged by a panel including Sophie Ellis Bextor, was easily won by The Twins, a faux pair of elder Siamese twins who quickly revealed their lithe bodies to an exulting audience. The fabulous vibe reached a paroxysm when Ultra Naté took to the stage, concluding her set with a belted rendition of her 1996 anthemic paean to freedom, which set the house on fire. The next morning, we all woke up in a daze to the news of the worst mass shooting in a modern US history, perpetrated against another group of LGBT people; people also gathered to have fun and enjoy life. A stark reminder that beyond the delicious frivolity, attending alternative events like this one is still a highly political act of subversion.

“Home away from home for disco queens, rock chicks and indie gays.”

Once you make it past the (that night rather dishy) bouncer and the friendly welcome of Zia, in charge of the door, Homo Superior, at the Moustache Bar in Stoke Newington/Dalston is probably not quite what its name would let you expect. Rather than a roomful of topless sweaty musclemen or supercilious beardy hipsters, the intimate basement bar is actually a relaxed little den, perfect for a drink and a boogie with friends, a self-styled “home away from home for disco queens, rock chicks and indie gays.” A party was there celebrating someone’s birthday while others were on a date. At the decks were Panos Z and guest DJ Laurence del Rey who played a selection of works by artists either queer themselves or favoured by our community, in a wide range of genres, from punk to indie or even disco. The order of the night was definitely low key alternative, a perfect way to relax.

Blocheads was BANGIN on Saturday! East London hive of debauchery East Bloc is one of the best nights in the city, gay or straight. It's got a brilliant sense of abandon about it that sets it apart from more conservative, straight-laced affairs. We got ourselves a Red Stripe and had a chat in the smoking area with an awesome guy from Nairobi who designed his own fascinators. One of which he was wearing at the time. Then we stumbled down and had a major dance to a refreshingly unpretentious pop playlist in the bar dance floor! All good vibez all night!

BABEZ

"Oh hey babez , Summertime Madness it is babez, issit babez, yes babez, where babez? Camden babez - Gonna be AMAZE babez!!!"

The above is a direct quote from the BABEZ - Summertime Madness event page, which gives you an idea of quite how mental this night is. The fact that it was started by Beary Carey this year, with a team consisting of origiBABEZ: the Un-Lucky Bitches, Dom Top and bin-bag goddess Lady Lloyd, should also give you a good idea of this how, well, mental it is.

Babez brings pop to Bloc Bar on Sat June 18th. They want to throw you the ultimate pop party, so if you're sick of those lifeless beats and dreary drumbeats - this is the place, kids.

This coming instalment features some familiar scene faces, so here's a quick Who's Who (or should it be Who's THAT?) of BABEZ - Summertime Madness:

BEARY CAREY

As the name suggests, this hairy masc mary is a devoted follower of Mimi. Expect all manner of past and present pop treats from the big boss of BABEZ. And at least 13 Ariana Grande tracks.

DOM TOP

Apparently a writer of some kind. Also part of an alleged "comedy group". Loves pop, dance pop, Latin pop and R'N'B ANTHEMS. So listen out for Spanish language versions of Fifth Harmony singles on heavy rotation.

LEWIS G BURTON

Oh here she is. Gay London's answer to Ursula the Sea Witch by way of Leigh Bowery, rocking up to the Bloc Bar with his makeup gun set to "WHORE" and a purse full of pop gems. Expect Hilary Duff and big looks.

CAIN JENNINGS (left)

Super cute host Cain can be seen twirling around dancefloors across the city, and now he's one of the BABEZ!

SMILEY VYRUS (right)

London nightlife's enfant terrible will be heading to Camden to unleash her brand of advanced slutticism on the dancefloor.

BABEZ: Summertime Madness is on Saturday 18th June at Bloc Bar (18 Kentish Town Rd, London NW1 9NX), 9pm-3am. £5

“A great choice for when you want a reliable
kick-off to your
Saturday night”

On a back street near Russell Square, tucked away snuggler than Lady Lloyd’s cooch, is New Bloomsbury Set. Enjoy an evening of mainstream pop hits and their cocktail counterparts: Can’t Get You Out of My Head and Cosmos all round please. This is the place to spot sexy but sassy bar staff, and swanky interior design delights. Last Saturday night we headed down to find wall-to-wall twinks and a happy hour that lasted from 4-8. NBS is the perfect place for getting tanked up with your squad before ploughing on elsewhere to cause Sauvignon Blanc fuelled carnage. Don’t let the highbrow name fool you, this place is a barrel of laughs the size of an actual barrel. The youthful, twinkly boys look to scale in this petit basement space: if NBS were a person it would wear a Topman XS and never eat bread. Overall, a great choice for when you want a reliable kick-off to your Saturday night.

“A great show from two seasoned performers.”

The show must go on: it's easy to say but very hard to do sometimes, but it did. Albeit with a subdued atmosphere throughout the house, with so many still reeling from the tragic events that had taken place in Orlando. Most simply seemed happy to sit and be transported away for a brief time whilst listening to Dave Lynn belting out a few numbers with his sidekick for the night Chamonix Aspen. We shared a few bevies with some of the regulars and let the night drift on, with a great show from two seasoned performers two as always and all in all a nice relaxed evening. Always good to spend some time onboard the Ship, we'll be back soon.

MEET THE CAST AND CHARACTERS OF Superficial!

Superficial is the new play about the London gay scene coming to The Glory. It covers pop music, drag, the rise of masc4masc, camp-shaming and the closure of queer spaces. With pop songs performed by a drag diva within the play, and set in a fictional gay club, 'Superficial' asks what it means to be a proud gay man in 2016, with a lot of fun, dance and humour. We chatted to some of the cast about their characters and what the play means.

Sam (Paul Duncan)

"TOTAL TOP, NSA, LOOKING FOR A JOB."

My name's Paul Duncan. I'm an actor from London. I'm so excited to be playing Sam in Superficial. The character goes through a journey of self-discovery, which I think every young gay guy can relate to. It's about opening your eyes, seeing different as ok and wearing your identity like a badge of honour. I can't wait to tell Sam's story and begin this electrifying ride and take you into the world that is $UPERICIAL.

Ibiza Chilltape (James Ferguson)

"OKAY, 6 ¾ INCHES BUT IT CAN PASS FOR 8 FROM THE RIGHT ANGLE"

Ibiza is a raunchy and playful drag artist who runs a regular 'Gayeoke' night at $UPERICIAL. She finds power in paying homage to her favourite pop icons and celebrating their strengths. I admire her for her dignity and strength. She is consistently a shoulder to lean on and tends to put other needs first rather than her own. Playing Ibiza has been a fantastic challenge and unlike anything I've ever tackled before. I can't wait.

JJ (Rich Watkins)

"THE POWER OF KYLIE COMMANDS YOU!"

JJ is a Kylie fanatic and jobbing actor who now works at Superficial as a bar manager. When he gets camp-shamed he begins forming another identity for himself of 'masc', and suddenly he's getting messages on Grindr. Only this means leaving Kylie behind...

Benjamin (Arkem Walton)

"ON MY EIGHTEENTH BIRTHDAY I DRANK A MAGNUM OF

CHAMPAGNE AND PASSED OUT ON THE BAR, DRESSED ONLY IN A CONE-SHAPED BRA, WITH MADONNA BOOMING ON LOOP"

Benjamin is a great story-teller. I think that's what most drew me to him. It's hard to tell which bits of his story are true and which are fantasy, but Benjamin believes in it all. He claims to have created the success of "$upericial" by himself, but now the crowds are dwindling he must recognise the talents of the young men around him, if he and the club are to survive. I am also looking forward to getting into Benjamin's closet, as I am aware that our very talented costumier, Charlie Tuesday Gates, is preparing many popstastic outfits to help me bring him sensationally to (larger than) life!

Archie/Dad (Matthew Hodson)

"I'M NOT HOMOPHOBIC, AS LONG AS A BLOKE'S A BLOKE, ENJOYS A GOOD GAME OF CRICKET AND A PINT OF REAL ALE, I DON'T MIND WHERE HE'S STICKING IT"

Archie, Sam's dad, is an old-fashioned man. Working in construction, he's used to a very masculine environment and has recreated this in his own home. He doesn't consider himself to be homophobic, but just thinks of gay men as some exotic species, that you might occasionally see when wandering through Soho, or on the telly. He's oblivious to the fact that his strictly enforced perception of gender roles is stifling and harming his own son. Many of us gay men grew up feeling challenged by our parents' expectations' of us.

Moira/Mum (Charly Flyte)

"I LEAD A COUPLE OF BOYS UP THE GARDEN PATH WITH A FLASH OF THE KNICKERBOCKERS. I'M NOT PROUD OF IT, BUT I DID."

Moira is of a generation of women who have been sold happiness as having 2.4 children and a four bedroom house in Chiswick. She is trapped between the two men in her life. Her husband who she desperately loves despite his old fashioned views and her son who she desperately loves and supports despite his rejection of her efforts. Ultimately Moira wants her son to feel loved and accepted in his struggles of sexuality but there are some circumstances that are beyond her power to change.

'Superficial' runs at The Glory, 281 Kingsland Road, E2 8AS from 20th June - 1st July, 7.30pm. £15. £10 previews on Monday 20th and Tuesday 21st using the code DIVA. Booking: www.dragonflietheatre.co.uk/superficial

KU Bar

30 Lisle Street, Soho, WC2H 7BA

Slap bang in the middle of Central London, on the bustling, brimming border between Chinatown and Soho, is Ku Bar! Ice cubes tinkle in tall, slim glasses as edibly muscular bar staff upend frosty bottles of Tanqueray, Smirnoff and Moet. It's frequented by everyone from urban A-gays to ambitious young students, and is the perfect place for a mid-week drink or a raucous Saturday night. Don't miss Colour Your Life at their Klub downstairs, every day except Tuesday and Sunday, 10pm – 3am. Their legendary, scorching hot DJ team play the dirtiest, hottest pop tracks.

Comptons of Soho

51 Old Compton Street, Soho, W1D 6HN

The staff at Comptons are SEXY. A wall of bulging-bicepped, hairy-forearmed, twinkle-eyed gorgeousness. We want them to take us home and do things that'd make JOHNNY RAPID blush. Yes! But for now, they're pouring drinks at Comptons. Comptons is one of those rare venues that has the balance between friendliness and cruisiness. You can hang out for a drink with friends. Or you can cruise sexy dads. It's a perfect world! We like their upstairs, there's some lovely chairs and things up there. Comfy chairs that you can really sink into.

Halfway To Heaven

7 Duncannon Street, Charing Cross, WC2N 4JF

Halfway is an INSTITUTION on the scene, a bustling gay watering hole that harkens back to days of old with its wood paneling, amiable bar staff and glitziy ostentatious cabaret acts. And as the weather heats up you can spill out onto their floral-strewn smoking terrace and enjoy a word famous view of Trafalgar Square. Don't miss WHATEVER WEDNESDAY every Wednesday (as the name suggests) from 8pm. Featuring Miss Penny, the best thing to come out of Birmingham since...well...ever.

The Old Ship

17 Barnes Street, Limehouse, E14 7NW

It's the Old Ship in Limehouse! Limehouse is home a cockney rhyming slang cash machine, did you know that? It's true! Right across the street from The Ship, go check it out. It says things like "Balance on Charlie Sheen" instead of "Balance on Screen". And "Horn of plenty" instead of "£20". Hilar! Anyway yes, Old Ship is a dusky, lovely little pub, that's withstood East London's gentrification infection and stayed true to its roots. An honest, grass roots boozier. This Sunday 19th from 8pm they've got Miss Penny. We hear she's got the best slot in town! Ho Ho Ho!

BJ's White Swan

556 Commercial Road, Limehouse, E14 7JD

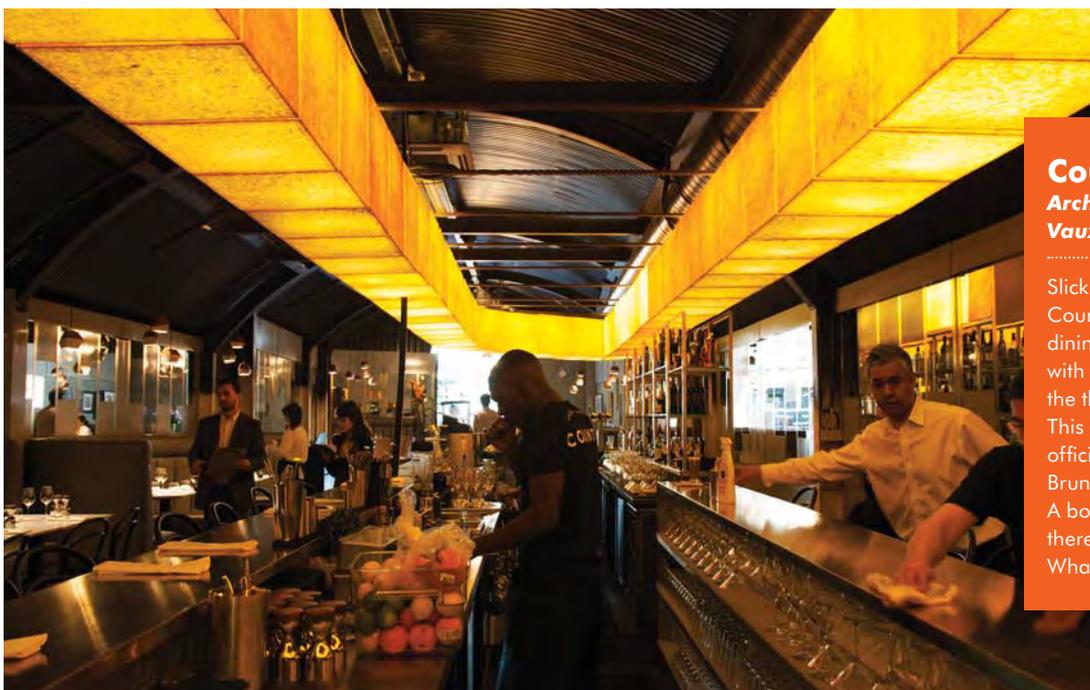

The White Swan is one of Limehouse's most well-established gay venues, playing host to some of the scene's best-known faces and most beloved cabaret acts. It's great for either a pint and a gossip, or a madcap weekend dance! This Friday they're having a fundraiser in support of the victims of the Orlando attacks, with comedy from radio presenter Rosie Wilby, as well as Marian Pashley and DJ Jason Prince. Free entry before 9:30pm.

Counter

Arch 50, South Lambeth Place, Vauxhall. SW8 1SP

Slick, sleek and sophisticated, Counter is Vauxhall's hottest new dining destination. It's brasserie vibes with a chic urban queer edge, just the thing for us worldly urban gays! This Sunday 19th at noon it's their official Pride In London Bottomless Brunch, for £25 including 2 courses. A bottomless brunch eh? We feel like there might be some bottoms there. Whatever next? A TOPLESS brunch?

When the first episode of a series opens with a guy unsuccessfully trying to enter his boyfriend's anus (first with his penis and then with three fingers) before giving up and demanding to know why he can smell shit, you know this is not your typical viewing fare.

Outings, a new series from TLA Releasing, certainly isn't pulling any punches when it comes to frank depictions of sex and relationships. Billing itself as "Queer As Folk meets Skins", from writers Rob Ward (co-writer of critically acclaimed play Away from Home) and Lloyd Eyre-Morgan (Iris Prize winner for Closets), the new three-part British drama focuses on a group of gay twentysomethings trying to work it all out. Been there!

The show is equally honest in its portrayal of the clubbing scene, as well as the pressures of making your way in the working world whilst staying true to your passions. Who hasn't had to settle for a shitty internship whilst moving back in with mum? Too real!

To whet your appetite, here's a brief synopsis of what to expect from each episode, plus a whole load of gorgey pics.

Episode 1 - Entrances and Exits

Kane is dumped by Tom (again) during an intimate moment and moves back in with his mum (yet again). Will he ever find his place in the world or in the bedroom? Elsewhere, Kiegan is asked a question and Tim tells it as it is.

Episode 2 - Best Man

Kiegan continues to escape the pressure of his breakup and family the only way he knows how, but will he further alienate himself at his niece's christening? Kane starts dating and a blast from Tim's past makes Lucy doubt their future.

Episode 3 - Happy Returns

Tim throws a surprise 80s pop star fancy dress birthday party for Lucy, convincing her that recent difficulties are behind them. But is Tim really ready to get serious with her? Old friends and foes collide in the explosive season finale.

Outings is perfect movie night viewing with a few mates, guaranteed to make you gasp or shout "That's happened to me!" at least twelve times. It's out now on VOD and DVD, so call the boys/girls/non-binaries grab a few bottles of wine, settle in and have a watch.

Outings is available at www.tlareleasing.co.uk/

LIFE OUTSIDE LONDON ATHENS

BEN JAMU is a well-known face on the East London scene, flinging his dreadlocks around, cracking open cans of Strongbow by the canal, and DJing everywhere from East Bloc and Dalston Superstore to someone's bedroom in Hackney Wick.

Last year, he upped sticks and jetted over to Athens. He's been dancing with sexy Grecian men, living it up on islands, and singing "I Should Be Souvlaki" ever since. Dylan Jones pulled him away from his busy schedule of boys, beaches and baklava to ask him all about it.

Ben Jamu

Hey Ben Jamu! What made you jet over to Athens?

I was here in 2012/2013 for my third year of uni. After I finished my degree I spent a year fucking around in London until it was time to do something more concrete. That was the aim anyway. The life here is pleasant and fairly easy. I know that's counterintuitive, given everything we know about the various crises going on, but my rent is €200 a month and the sun shines constantly, what more can I say.

What are your fave things about it?

Being outside ALL THE TIME! I never have to worry about which clothes will be appropriate for whatever the weather will throw at you. In general the rule I go by (as a 'Brit abroad') is the less the better, which I'm perfectly happy with. I barely even wear pants these days. Besides that, the scenery and landscapes are amazing, especially if you have time to travel. One thing I love is that you don't actually need money to leave the house as you do in London. If you really need something, you can find it, steal it or have it given to you and you won't risk your life doing so.

Is there a gay scene?

There are gays EVERYWHERE, whether they say so or not and cruising parks a-plenty (not that I know anything about that). And then there's the island element. Beyond Mykonos, which everyone knows about, in my experience the nature hippy islands are also SUPER GAY. I've heard people say Athens in the new Berlin, but I guess they've never been to Berlin. In any case the city's in a state of such flux and chaos that there are Mariah moments of true creative madness emerging from the rubble.

Totes superficial question...what are the gays like?!

There is a LOT of eye candy here, but eye candy comes to nothing when they're either married, in the closet or have deeply damaged macho-masculine psychologies. Still, with fascist neo-nazis on the prowl and the threat of mother cutting off your weekly supply of Pastichio and Moussaka, it's in some way understandable that they generally want to be on the DL. I've met some nice ones though and they are generally hot. If you're into casual conversationless sex, then it's the place for you!

Talk us through your typical weekend in Athens. What's your favourite venue there?

My favourite parties are the self organised free raves that make use of the city's university spaces, parks, hills, mountains and beaches, which can be truly breathtaking locations to be dancing as the sun comes up. They're less categorised than the parties in London. There's a sense of controlled anarchy which just wouldn't work in the UK. I've DJ'd a couple which was awesome. You can find your specialist bars too though, if you look and have accounts to the rights sex websites I guess haha. In answer to your question...I don't have a favourite venue, because it all depends on the night.

Where's best for a cheeky 4am snack?

They're good at fast food and it's super cheap so take your pick, the burgers are great and of course souvlakia (Greek kebab type things) are everywhere. I personally usually get a big fat slice of pizza from Platia Exarchia at these times of the morning.

Where's best for a cheeky 4am man?

They're app mad here. I guess for the discreet and emotionless element of it all...but you're just as likely to randomly hook up at one of the queer friendly mixed bars or alternative parties. Like I said there are cruisey places, and if you have 10 euros spare you can pick up 20 year old Albanian and Middle Eastern immigrant boys at the bordellos around Victoria Square. It all depends what you're into and how far you're willing to stretch that moral compass, if you have one at all that is.

Do you live in a Grecian palace with houseboys?

Not even close.

What's your house like?

I live in a top floor studio apartment with sea and mountain views from the balcony and terrace. It's small but perfect for me and my dog and one or two more casual guests as and when I decide.

Tell us about the work you do there. Are you ever coming back to London? We miss you!

Right now I'm working with a local Human Rights organisation trying to improve the lives of LGBTQ+ immigrants and refugees as well as promoting better bonds between the various minority communities. It's a dynamic and varied job which is quite extreme and we're constantly adapting to the situation, which changes daily. I've also been DJing here and there, one of the best being a sunrise set in an ancient amphitheatre.

Wow amaze! Well come back and see us soon Ben. We'll have a Strongbow by the canal. Not quite sunrise at an Athenian amphitheatre, but you can't win 'em all.

makes you come

The Pride in London Festival

is a wonderfully varied, challenging and stimulating amalgamation of LGBT events leading up to the main pride celebrations on Saturday 25th. Festival curator Duncan Day, along with a dedicated group of other volunteers, has organised a host of film screenings, performances, panel discussions and everything in between, across the city for anyone to enjoy.

Last week we went to a screening of Oriented at the intimidatingly urban-chic Ham Yard Hotel nestled down a Soho side street. London's gay media glitterati were in attendance, from award-winning film producer Hanan Kattan, to muslim drag superstar Asifa Lahore.

Oriented is a documentary following the lives of three young gay Palestinian men living in Tel Aviv. It explores their relationship with religion, sexuality, and culture, and the tension between Jews and Muslims that is still a major part of everyday life in Israel.

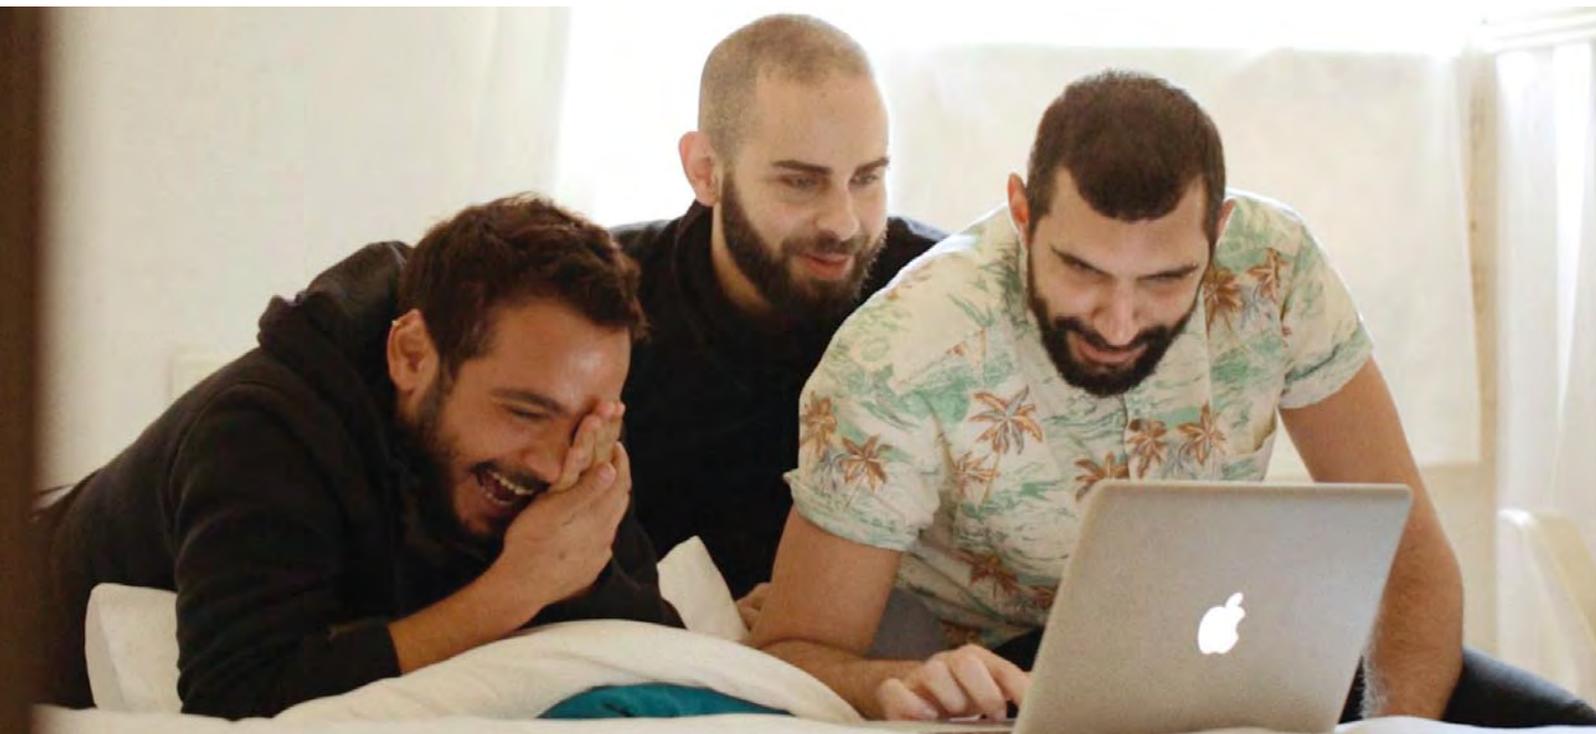

Director Jake Witzenfeld has created a warm-hearted and accessible window into Israeli/Palestinian culture. Filmed in an unthreatening style, it never feels contrived or preachy. He achieves a goal that is surely the holy grail for all documentary film makers – he captures seemingly totally natural behaviour and conversation from his subjects, as if the camera weren't there.

We followed Khader, Fadi and Naim as they agonized over trysts and romances, debated the pros and cons of living in politically volatile Tel Aviv and discussed their sexuality with their families. It's also refreshingly free of the clichés that are rife among other portrayals of Palestinian culture. It's mostly just about three friends having fun, getting drunk and talking about life.

A running theme is of them leaving their oppressively rural upbringings and finding joy and freedom in the urban metropolis of a thriving city, something a lot of gay men can identify with.

Oriented is an important movie. It puts across aspects of life for young gay people in the Middle East that many of us are totally unfamiliar with. It shows a group of people who know what they want, unafraid and unapologetic in the face of a challenging and changing sociopolitical environment.

Extreme Queens Supreme!

Ever snorted raw shit? Or lovingly peeled a poxy, ulcerated penis from diarrhoea-disaster Y-fronts? Really, how extreme is too extreme? Should there be any limits whatsoever to the scatological surrealism of fabulously provocative gay art? Yes, better strap yourselves in, boys, there's a vile road ahead! So, join me in a filthily intimate kiss to Samuel R. Delaney, indisputably the fiercest gay, black, no-holds-barred sex and science-fiction writer on planet earth.

Never heard of the guy? OMG, where have you poor saps been living? At the butt-end of happy, sappy clowns like Armistead Maupin masquerading as worthwhile, fag fiction? No, instead, let's retract the raw, diseased foreskin of Delaney's novel The Madman, an unflinching, sexual odyssey even clap clinic junkies would puke at!

It's the 1980s, and gay, black student John Marr's researching Korean philosopher Timothy Hasler's murder near an NYC gay bar in 1973. In increasingly depraved scenes reminiscent of Hannibal Lecter's infatuated, mental fuck-buddy identification with Clarice Starling, Marr starts retracing, and finally re-enacting, Hasler's every sexual outrage. You think bare-backing and eating multiple sticks of mixed, frozen cum – spunk lollies – is risky? Try Delaney's beyond-queasy recreations of infamous NYC gay bar The Mineshaft's 'Wet Nights' – Marr's drenched, drinks and lubricates himself with gallons of combined, STD piss!

That's just for starters. Ever encountered the dry-heave delights of Mysophilia, instant sexual arousal from vomit, runny turds, rank body hygiene and putrid clothes? Repeatedly, Marr indulges in reckless sex with the foulest, least attractive homeless men possible, manically feasting on dicks he sees as strangely beautified by Kaposi's sarcomas.

Appalling? Who to, maiden aunts or brain-dead Kardashian clones? Delaney, quite rightly, is totally unrepentant in the face of any disapproval – straight or gay – and defiantly advocates personal excess whatever the risk.

Admirably, The Madman makes that clear from page one. 'I do not have AIDS' Delaney writes, 'I am surprised that I don't. I have actively had sex with other men weekly, sometimes daily – without condoms – for the last decade and a half...' Bravo. Don't we all, as LGBT front-liners, have a sacred duty to step beyond the bigoted guilt, shame and disdain of anti-gay contempt?

Understand, to fully appreciate extreme, gay artistry, it's essential to overcome bourgeois squeamishness, so initially, I furiously beat off to Human Centipede and Saw torture-porn flicks. Well, who wouldn't – it's a sublime alternative to Eastenders. Even so, internalising Delaney's relentless, immersive sleaze is tough, hardly some dream-date orgy with Rylan and Sam Smith!

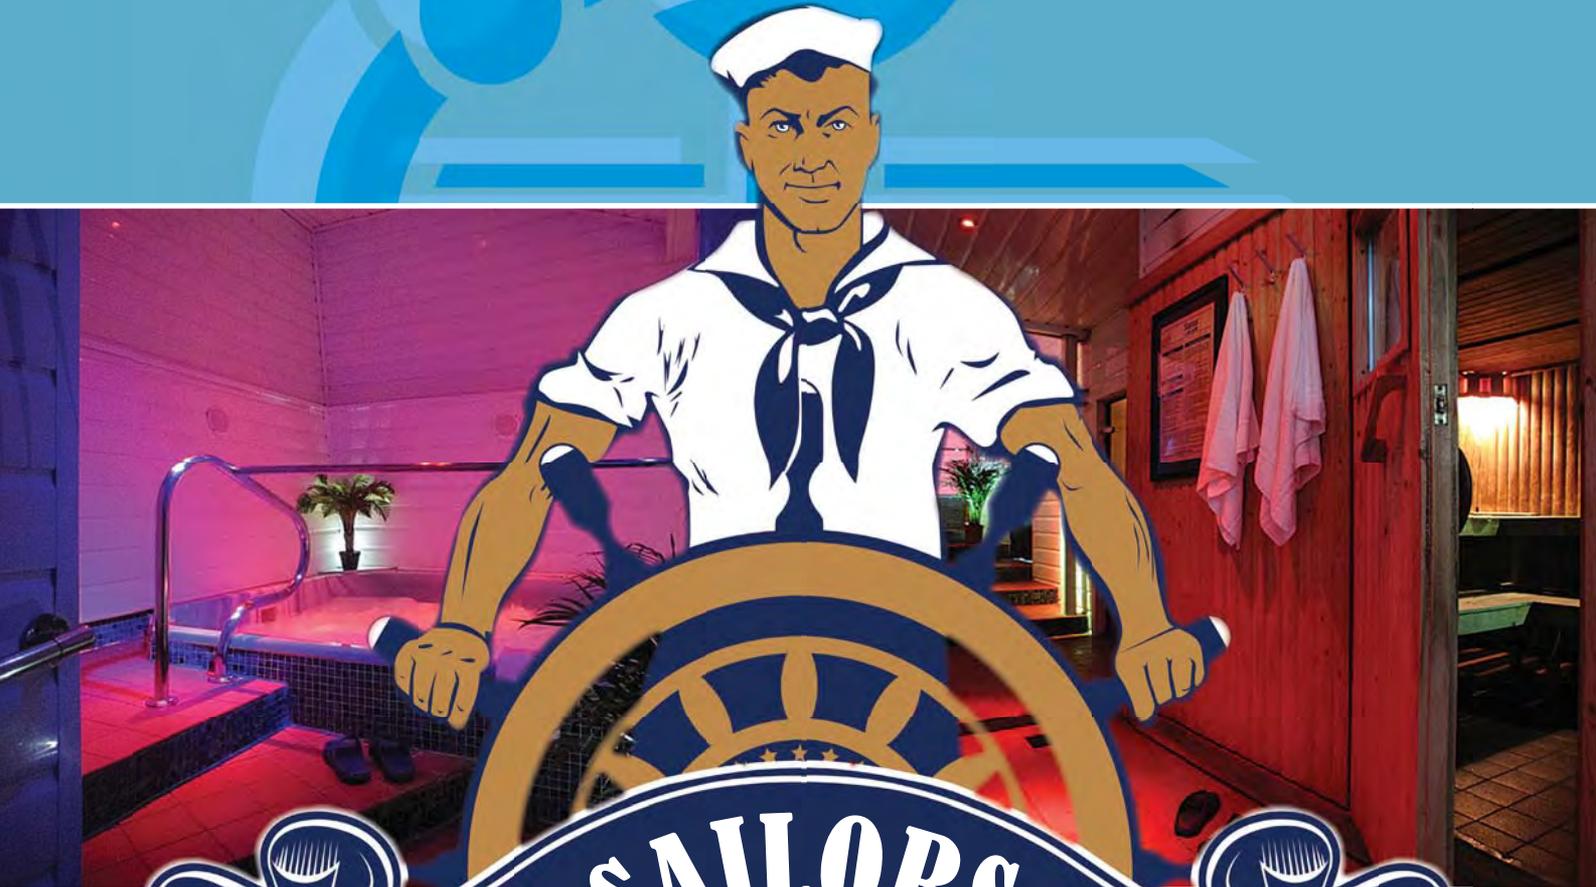

Still, respect to the man – Delaney's hardcore, transgressive depravity is easily on par with Mapplethorpe's iconic bullwhip jammed in an eager butthole. Certainly, along with Larry Kramer's Faggots, Delaney's written an essential, gay survivor's Bible, but - like rancid, foul-tasting spunk - one that's still truly hard to swallow!

Phew! On the fluffier side of obscenity, treat yourself to Spanish comic-book artist Nazario's stunningly crass she-male sadist, Anarcoma. Imagine Iggy Pop with shocking, Dolly Parton boobs, or Conchita Wurst on 'roid-rage, as perpetually horny, private detective Anarcoma demands to fuck or be fucked! Believe me, s/he's Superman's worst possible nightmare, the throbbing, insatiable cock inside his tight red panties!

#JULIASAYS

by Princess Julia

You know if there's such a thing as an 'underground' scene going on then this guy Max Allen is a leading light! So much so that a magazine's been made centered around his genius attitude... Max Allen Loves Experimenting with Different Clothes - A portrait of a modern man by Reba Maybury on Wet Satin Press is launching on Thursday 16th June at Donlon Books, 75-77 Broadway Market, E2 from 7pm 'til 9pm.

The scene is thriving down at The Glory also on Thursday 16th from 8pm onwards. Funny Peculiar with Diane Chorley and John Kearns introduces a new night of stand up comedy with special guests including Jonny Woo. So that's your Thursday sorted then if you fancy following me around East London!

Good old Virgin Xtravanzah!

This is one hell of a busy performer who this week gives us Virgin's Pink and Black Xtravaganzah on Friday 17th at the Bethnal Green Working Men's Club. It's a variety show starring an array of underground beyondness, including Rodent Decay, Bourgeoisie, Shakonda and Joe Black. Show time 9.30pm, goes on until 2am with music DJ Miss Tete Bang!

Over at Bloc Bar it's time for Babes Summertime Madness on Saturday 18th June. It's the 'ultimate pop party' with DJs Beary Carey, Dom Top and Lewis G Burton and hosted by Cain Jennings. 9pm-3am.

If you're into an indie vibe then check out monthly night Queer at the Mascara Bar up at 72 Stamford Hill. Sam Fenn & Michael Bowden play all the best bits from a playlist of DIY queercore, stuff like brit pop, riot grrl, synth pop and everything in between from 9-3am.

Oh! Before I leave you I must mention Q Factor, the weekly Monday night talent competition hosted by Silver Summers at the Bloc Bar on until the final on 8th August. On the 20th I'll be coming down to join the prestigious panel of judges headed by resident Vanity Von Glow...7pm - late, and free to get in!

Then my dears on Tuesday 21st June I'll be joining Classical Album Sundays London presents Grace Jones 'Warm Leatherette' with Luke Howard and Princess Julia for a panel talk celebrating the re-issue of box set deluxe edition of Warm Leatherette. We'll be discussing all things Grace from 7pm onwards at the Eagle in Vauxhall. classicalbumsundays.com

Disco, Blisters & A Comedown

Dylan Jones' roundup of new music for people who listens to music!

So, this edition of Disco, Blisters & A Comedown is about...the best Girls Aloud B-sides. I know. Like, I'm really scraping the barrel now aren't I. Oh well. THIS IS MY JOB, OK?! I tried to be a waiter and I kept getting fired! It's not my fault I could only carry one plate at a time, and that I didn't give a shit whether table 23 got their pumpkin ravioli. I decided to become a fucking writer, so sit down, shut up, and read about the three best Girls Aloud B-sides.

Aren't the B-sides always the best?! ALWAYS. "B-side" is a bit of an invalid phrase these days, because it referred to when you actually physically turned the CD over to play what was on the other side. CDs were round shiny things that you used to put into a sort of slot and they'd play music. Anyway. These songs can now all be found on "Girls Aloud: The Collection (Studio Albums/B Sides)" which is on Spotify.

Thank Me Daddy

Just in time for father's day! If a song has "daddy" anywhere in the title or lyrics, I will automatically love it. Do I have daddy issues? Maybe. I haven't really thought about it. Although Sigmund Freud would probably have a field day analyzing my bookmarked porn (how you doin' Rocco Steele?). I don't know whether any of Girls Aloud have daddy issues. Let's not go into it. It's a good song anyway. Tongue-in-cheek lyrics, guitar backing track. Proper good old-fashioned cheeky pop! You can almost hear the sound of Sarah Harding's mum's jaw dropping in horror.

Hoxton Heroes

Now THIS used to be my anthem! I first discovered it when I lived in a squat in Camden with a bunch of straight boys who had long shaggy hair and guitars and bad tattoos. It could NOT have been more timely. It's got sassy lyrics in it like "You bought a trilby and a cheap guitar/You thought you'd be a star/Didn't get you that far." My friend Ainé and I used to play it gleefully and swig rosé, cackling at the kitchen table while the boys passed a joint around and scowled at us. THOSE WERE THE DAYS.

On The Metro

This so should have been a single! A proper brooding, dangerous, urban pop statement! It's high-octane, with some great old-fashioned RHYMING! There's never rhyming in pop songs these days. At one point Nicola croons "His moves were so ridiculous/but he looked so meticulous/I could tell that he meant business/gettin' all up in mah face!" It's probably the closest a ginger person has ever come to actually rapping, and it's major!

FETISH IDENTIFICATION GUIDE

With Fetish Week London kicking off on Sunday 10th July, we thought it might be wise to help any newbies discern what their fetish actually is, before you throwing themselves headlong into their massive program of pervy parties. There's something for every one, so crack open the poppers, polish your boots, tighten your cockring and get reading!

BDSM & Bondage

Have you ever tied your belt a little bit too tight and though "this is quite horny"? Or maybe someone's playful slap has sent blood rushing to your crotch? If either of them are the case for you, you just might be a bit of Bondage and BDSM. Which is just fine, since Fetish Week have a Bondage Masterclass, where you can hone your knot-tying, as well as a bondage room where you can keep yourself tied up.

Puppy Play

Sports

Football, rugby, boxing, swimming, wrestling, cycling, lycra, spandex, trackies, trainers, jockstraps, muddy fields, sweaty pits, group showers. Wet yet? Because if that's the case, then you might be quite the sports fan. We're not talking about some bloated twat sitting at home watching the match and tucking into a TV dinner, we mean that watching the match makes you wanna get your fuck on. Good news, there's a great place to score and it's FWL's Sports Cruise party. GOAL!

Woof woof, cock your leg for me. Good boy! Daddy's got a meaty bone for you. Right, did any of that give you that lovely low-down tickle? Puppy Play is one of the fastest growing fetishes, so don't be surprised if you wanna get fucked like Fido too! Best in Show is the Fetish Week event you need to be at. A party dedicated to pups and their handlers! Plus Full Fetish will have a pup area with turf and toys for them to frolic in. Down boy!

Leather

Does the scent of freshly polished cowhide get your motor running? The feel of bare skin against leather? The groans of it as you move make you let out a little groan yourself? Fetish Week has more events for your taste in material than you can shake a stick at! From Full Fetish to Deconstruction, to FWL2016-approved party BLUF at Backstreet, so get into it. We mean your leather. Get into and go to the parties. You'll love it.

Rubber & Latex

Ever rubbed out your pencil work a little too sensually? Ever snapped your marigolds a little too vigorously? Does the sight of a rubber plant rub you up the right way? Has blowing up a balloon ever given you a boner? Well rubber and latex is probably for you! Give it a whirl, you get to wear fun outfits, and it's all wipe-clean! For if you spill some...erm... water on it? Or, y'know. CUM. Or if you're into watersports, piss! We're not beating around the bush. Unlike you will be.

Boots and skins

Have you ever walked past a rough skinhead in a pair of bover boots and thought "Spit in your mouth and fuck me 'til I cry?" You're not alone. It's actually quite a popular fetish. Where better to find yourself a shaved slut than at SKINHEAD? It's like Ronseal, does what it says on the tin. Then does you right up the arse.

Watersports

Is taking a peek at the urinal a sexy situation to you? Does a steaming cup of hot piss whet your appetite? Well, you may well be into watersports. These guys are totally into what urine to. Sorry, that pun was just laying there begging for us to piss all over it. Full Fetish has a lovely piss room. It's full to the brim of bathtubs and a man-made pool, so stop by for a dirty dip.

Fetish Week LONDON

So if any of these have tickled your pickle (or your fancy), then check out Fetish Week London starting on Sunday July 10th until Sunday 17th July.

Full listings and tickets can be found at www.fetishweek.com.
